

Marina Kiotsekoglou

Marina is a Sustainability Professional at dss+. She joined dss+ through the acquisition of KKS Advisors, where she worked on various engagements as a sustainability consultant for over three years. As a sustainability consultant, she supports corporations seeking to better understand and enhance their sustainability strategy and respective initiatives, ESG data, impact reporting, amongst other things. She has extensive expertise in the field having developed several ESG training courses (both for companywide and c-suite executive groups), carried out a number of materiality assessments for international and regional corporations, created high-level sustainability, ESG and integrated reports, and supported corporations with the enhancement of their ESG and sustainability agendas.

Some of Marina's most notable achievements included the publication of several thought pieces, one of which was featured by SASB, the co-authorship of the ATHEX ESG Reporting Guide and the opportunity to influence C-Suite executives on directing their companies towards a more sustainable future.

Prior to her consulting work, Marina gained experience in the NGO sector working on international development and the adaptation of sustainability models in the refugee relief sector in Greece. Additionally, she has worked on research and advocacy outreach for several institutions in Washington, DC such as the American Hellenic Institute and United Nations Women.

Marina holds an MA in International Affairs from George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs, and a BA in International Political Economy from The Pennsylvania State University.
